Confessing Christ in a Contrary Culture

Saturday, September 13, 2014 ♦ Our Shepherd Lutheran Church—Avon, Indiana

Confessing Christ in a Contrary Culture

The Church finds itself surrounded by an increasingly anti-Christian culture and society. The LCMS even finds itself pitted against other church bodies in relation to many social and cultural issues. An uncertain future appears to loom for Christian congregations, families, college students, pastors, teachers, and other individuals. This workshop will help address how the church meets the challenge of confessing the faith clearly and with conviction in what we say, sing, do, and teach on Sunday morning and throughout the week. The answers are where God always promises them to be—in His Word and Sacraments. As we confess the faith in the Divine Service, pray with clarity and hope, and continue to learn the truths of God’s Word, Christ keeps us “safe and secure in the holy ark of the Christian Church.”

Plenary Speaker: Rev. Todd Wilken

Wilken is assistant pastor at Trinity Lutheran Church in Millstadt, Ill., and host of the radio program “Issues, Etc.,” heard weekdays from 3–5 p.m. CST at www.issuesetc.org and on several radio affiliates in Missouri, Nebraska, Wyoming, Nevada and Northern California. He has written for Modern Reformation, Higher Things, For the Life of the World, and many other publications. Wilken also hosts a weekly radio podcast called “Crossroads” for GetReligion.org, focusing on media coverage of religion and produced jointly by Issues, Etc. and GetReligion.org.

Preacher: Rev. Daniel Brege

Brege is the Pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church in Decatur (Preble). He also serves the Indiana District as Second Vice President, and is a preacher on the televised Worship for Shut-Ins program.
